Ramses: A 2022 Success Story

Prior to participating in the programming at Made New, Ramses had been struggling to find purpose. Difficulties in his past brought him to Omaha Street School, one of our community partners. From there, he was connected to our welding mentorship, where he was able to begin learning about welding and practice hands-on in our makerspace facility.

Ramses' outlook changed almost immediately when he started in our program. "Before I took this class, I'd never thought about getting into welding," Ramses stated. Now, the high school senior has found a purpose, and decided that he wants to go into welding when he graduates. This has helped motivate him to continue in his classes today, and has given him goals for his future that he is working toward. Well done, Ramses!
